The screenshot shows two parts of a software development environment. The top part is a console window titled 'TicketBookingSystem [Java Application] C:\Users\Mruganka\p2\pool\plugins\org.' It displays the output of a Java application. The application shows a menu with 8 options: 1. Create Event, 2. Get Event Details by Name, 3. Get Available Tickets, 4. Calculate Booking Cost, 5. Book Tickets, 6. Cancel Booking, 7. Get Booking Details, and 8. Exit. The user has entered '6' for their choice. Then, they entered '918' as the booking ID to cancel. The application responds with 'Booking cancelled successfully.'

The bottom part is a database query window. It has tabs for 'booking', 'customer', 'event', and 'venue'. The 'booking' tab is selected. The query editor shows the SQL statement: `SELECT * FROM ticketbookingsystem.booking;`. A tooltip is visible over the 'Execute' button (a blue play icon), stating 'Execute the statement under the keyboard cursor'. The toolbar also includes icons for saving, undo, redo, and other database operations, along with a 'Limit to 1000 rows' dropdown.
